

Herbert Hoover Secretary Of Commerce

Herbert Hoover Secretary Of Commerce - Herbert Hoover. Hoover won the Republican nomination in 1928, and defeated Democrat Al Smith in a landslide. Hoover avoided the anti-Catholicism that hurt Smith, but in a time of peace and prosperity his success was highly likely. Herbert Hoover - Secretary of commerce. Hoover remained the captive of the Prohibitionists through the 1932 campaign, and Roosevelt was the beneficiary of growing sentiments for repeal. The presidency would provide a test of Hoover's Quaker background and prowess as a social engineer. Herbert Hoover, Economic Mastermind. As secretary of commerce, Herbert Hoover also helped organize at the Federal Trade Commission a series of trade practice conferences, intended to forge voluntary, industry-by-industry consensus on what constituted fair trade practices, in keeping with the Coolidge administration's faith in...from 1921 to 1928 as secretary of commerce under Presidents Warren Harding and Calvin Coolidge, is a most welcome addition to the growing literature on Hoover and the New Economic Era.